

Shereen J

Twitter X: @ShereenJ_SLT

I found out about this post through NHS Jobs.
(remember to enable notifications for new posts!)

I started in this role on 23rd October 2023.

To prepare for the interview, I sought help from the University's Career Services and had mock interview sessions with my friends.

Currently, I have supervision with both my line manager and clinical supervisor, working through my NQP and dysphagia competencies. As a team, we also have CPD training sessions.

Adult SLT

East Kent Hospitals University
NHS Foundation Trust

Current role:

I work with the wonderful team at Kent and Canterbury Hospital. Our caseload comprises of stroke acute and rehabilitation, and general acute inpatients.

Typical day:

As a team, we start our day triaging and prioritising our caseload. Then, we will spend the day assessing, reviewing, and having therapy sessions with the patients. These also involve working closely with the other healthcare professionals and colleagues. I will also shadow my senior colleagues to increase learning opportunities!

Advice to Students

Enjoy all the learning (be it during the course of your degree, placements or from your peers) and never be afraid to ask questions. Get involve in activities to network (e.g. RCSLT Student Day). Reflect from mistakes made as they provide excellent learning opportunities!