Foreword

It is with great pleasure that we are continuing – Inspire – the RCSLT Leadership Programme in 2025.

The inaugural Inspire programme, which took place last year, was described by those that attended as a huge success, and we will be building on this momentum in offering an even better learning experience for our future leaders in 2025.

The aim of this programme is to provide our members with a learning platform which fulfils their leadership expectations from both an operational and strategic perspective.

During this programme RCSLT will support you in understanding how your leadership behaviours affect the culture and climate you, your colleagues, and teams work in.

I hope many of you will be encouraged to use the programme to embark on your leadership journey, and as your membership body we look forward to supporting you through it.

Steve Jamieson
CEO, Royal College of Speech and Language Therapists

About the programme

The RCSLT Leadership Programme has been developed in collaboration with Real Healthcare Solutions Ltd. to inspire our RCSLT members to become future healthcare leaders.

The programme consists of two in-person days and three virtual seminars as well as self-directed learning.

The overall programme will support you to realise that what you do and how you behave will affect the experiences of patients and service users of your organisation, the quality of care provided, and the reputation of the organisation itself.

To be truly effective, leaders need to build a toolkit of knowledge, skills and behaviours that will set them, their teams and their organisations up for success.

Good leadership starts with self-awareness. Leaders must develop an awareness of their strengths and weaknesses, their preferred style and approach, and their emotional triggers; and learn how to manage, mitigate and maximise these for the benefit of their teams.

Leaders are role models, and the example they set has a huge impact on the organisational culture. So, it's critical that they first appreciate and then demonstrate the appropriate behaviours that build trust and promote a positive working environment – and do so authentically and consistently.

The leadership programme is funded by the RCSLT and free to participants, however travel and accommodation costs will not be covered.

For any queries please email leadership@rcslt.org.

Programme outline

Bruce Isdale, BCom, ACMA MBA

Mindflick Practitioner

Bruce is a leadership consultant and coach who is passionate about helping individuals and organisations to perform at their best. The first 13 years of Bruce's career was in London, in finance and accounting, during which time he qualified as a Chartered Management Accountant. A number of years spent working in the Global Leadership Consulting business of a listed human capital firm brought him to the realisation that he was "too near the scoreboard, and not near enough the field of play", prompting a change in career in 2013. Bruce has an MBA in Leadership and qualifying as an Executive Coach, and has since immersed himself in the world of human performance, delivering work in the UK and in South Africa. Bruce is accredited in all of Mindflick's material including SpotlightProfile, SpotlightDynamics.

Spotlight is borne out of lessons learned in elite sport and helps people to understand how they might perform at their best by leveraging Adaptability and Mindset.

Other guest speakers will be included on the programme and confirmed in due course.

The Royal College of Speech and Language Therapists (RCSLT) is the professional body for speech and language therapists in the UK. As well as providing leadership and setting professional standards, the RCSLT facilitates and promotes research into the field of speech and language therapy, promotes better education and training of speech and language therapists, and provides its members and the public with information about speech and language therapy.
